Remote Mock Examination for November 2026 Examinations

The IAI will be conducting remote mock exams for candidates who have registered for the November 2026 examinations.

The reason for the mock exams is to familiarise the candidates with the examination system and with the rules that apply to the November 2026 examinations.

Mock Examination Period: 1 October 2026 to 7 October 2026

Important Information

1. Candidates can only take the mock examination for the subject(s) they registered for in the November 2026 exams.
2. Candidates can use their own computer or laptop for the mock examination, but a computer system will be provided at the designated examination centre for the real examination.
3. The mock examination link and instructions will be available in the Member Login under Examination > Exam Details.
4. Candidates are advised to review the Student Guide for Actuarial Examination before taking the mock examination.
5. The answer scripts handed in at the mock examination will not be marked and no results will be announced for the mock examination.

Candidates should use the mock examination to familiarize themselves with the platform and procedures before the November 2026 examinations.
