FAQ's – Actuarial Examination

General:

1. I have passed ACET. What do I do next?

If you have passed the ACET, this means you are eligible for student membership of the IAI. Click on the following link to fill the Online Admission related details Click Here

2. Where can I find more information on the syllabus?

Syllabus may be obtained from Institute's website – Click Here

3. How many subjects can I attempt in one examination cycle?

There is no limit; students can register for multiple exams in an exam session provided they do not fall on same date and time.

4. What are the dates of actuarial exams?

Actuarial exams are conducted twice a year – usually May and November. Examination dates for the upcoming exams are posted on the Institute website - Click Here for further details.

5. Where can I appear for an exam?

Institute has taken the initiative of conducting home based online Actuarial exams May 2024 onwards.

6. Do the answer scripts accrue negative marking?

No, there is no negative marking.

7. What is the pattern of the examinations - is it objective or subjective?

For CB1, CB2, and Paper A of subjects CS and CM, 40% of the content shall be objective questions (MCQs), while for other subjects, the papers may include a mix of both objective and subjective components. Past examination papers and solutions are available on the Institute's website - Check Here

8. How do I prepare myself for the exams – is there a provision for coaching at IAI?

Institute has a robust mechanism for coaching and counselling our students. Click Here to view the details related to coaching.

9. I am not sure what order of sitting the exams to follow?

While there is no prescribed order, it is seen that starting the actuarial exams with Core principles works well in easing the students' understanding and logical follow through with the exam rigour. A general thumb rule based on trends indicates that students follow a numerical order. It may be worth noting that:

CB1 – Business Finance assumes knowledge of CM1

CS2 – Actuarial Statistics assumes knowledge of CS1

CM2 – Financial Engineering and Loss reserving assumes knowledge of CS1, CS2, CM1 and CB2.

You may find it convenient to leverage your college education while selecting the subjects appropriately. Typically preferred choices based on education background have been:

Mathematics/Engineering: CM1
Statistics: CS1 and CS2
Economic: CB2
Accounts / Commerce: CB1

Whilst planning your exams, kindly note that there is no compulsory order of studying Core principle subjects.

The numbering of the Core principle subjects represents an ordering that would be appropriate for anyone working in life insurance or pensions. Anyone working in general insurance may prefer to take CS2 at any stage after studying CM1 while someone working in investment may prefer to take CB2 and CM2 before CS2 and CM1.

10. How much time does it take to prepare for a particular exam?

This is a highly subjective question and solely depends on the student's commitment. Nevertheless, the ball park hours of intensive study as reported by successful students in the past are as highlighted:-

- Core principle subjects (CS1 & 2, CM1 & 2, CB1 & 2): Between 125 and 150 hours and student's past educational background in the subject.
- Business awareness (CB3) At least 20 hours plus two-day practical course
- Actuarial Practice (CP1) 400 hours
- Model Practice (CP2) 50 hours
- Communication Practice (CP3) 50 hours
- Specialist principle subjects (SP) 200 hours
- Specialist applications subjects (SA) 300 hours

11. What is considered as prior knowledge during CP2/CP3 examination?

In CP2/CP3, it is assumed that the students have prior knowledge of CS, CM and CB subjects.

Any additional information not part of assumed knowledge of prior subjects will be provided within the question paper itself, if relevant and applicable.

12. Can I appear for CP1 in the beginning?

There is no minimum eligibility for CP1. However, students may find it logically convenient to clear all core principle subjects prior attempting CP1.

13. What is the eligibility for applying for CP2 & CP3 subjects?

There are no pre-requisites of clearing other papers in order to register for CP2 & CP3.

14. Is it mandatory to pass Paper A and Paper B individually for subjects CS1, CS2, CM1, CM2, CP1 and CP2?

It is not mandatory to pass Paper A and Paper B individually. Kindly refer the Pass Mark Rule.

15. Can I use an External Calculator from approved list of IAI during online examination?

Yes, you may use scientific calculators during the examination as applicable. However, only the following models are permitted:

16. How long does it take to become an Actuary? Does one need to complete the exams within a certain time frame?

There is no fixed duration to complete the course as you are at liberty to take the examinations at a pace that suits your circumstances. 13 subjects are prescribed to be cleared before one is awarded the Fellowship and calls for continued and sustained efforts to complete the course. Additionally, you need a minimum of three years' relevant work experience to qualify as a Fellow. Keeping the above factors in mind, the typical time-frame for qualification in recent years has been 5-8 years.

17. Do I need to work before I qualify? How do I work as an actuary if I have not yet qualified?

In order to qualify, there is a minimum work experience requirement of three years in an Actuarial field. Almost all reputable actuarial employers have attractive study programs to support your development and growth. These include time off work to study and take the examinations, mentoring by senior colleagues as well as financial support. Being an actuary is a professional qualification and you are expected to gain relevant work experience alongside studies. Typically, if you have passed two to four core technical papers, it is advisable to actively begin researching your preferred career options and secure an appropriate job.

18. Where/how can I get a job?

34. Is there any specific font or size to consider at the time of answering through online mode? Can I use bold/ italic and colour font in my answer scripts?

It is recommended to use default font size.

35. Is it permitted to use a device that converts handwritten text into typed text automatically?

No, you are not permitted access to any such device. You are expected to complete all examination answers using keyboard entry into the applicable platform as outlined earlier.

36. Can I appear for online examination through my office laptop?

You are strongly advised to use your personal laptop/desktop for online examination. Office laptop/desktop may have security/download related restrictions. It is the candidate's personal responsibility to ensure they meet the software and hardware requirements as stipulated above so that the online examination platform can operate without any hindrance.

37. What happens if the computer hardware or MS Office/R software fails during the examination?

You are strongly advised to test the hardware i.e. laptop or desktop along with accessories like mouse, keyboard, webcam, soundcard/microphone and satisfy yourselves that they are in working condition. You should have downloaded any latest security patches and keep your device updated to its latest expected version before the start of the examination. You can also access any back-up device which meets the minimum hardware requirement as a replacement if need arises.

In case of MS Office/R, we strongly advise the candidate to only use authorized and legitimate version of the software. The candidate is advised to download and install all latest software updates before the examination.

Given this is home-based examination, it remains the responsibility of the candidate to ensure the hardware/software works during the time of examination.

38. What happens in case of power failure/interruption during the examination?

You are advised to keep your laptop fully charged and/or have a battery capacity that can last the full duration of an examination session. For desktop, it is advisable to have power back-ups for situations of power failure/interruption.

Given this is home-based examination, it remains the responsibility of the candidate to ensure the access to uninterrupted power supply to the laptop/ desktop or means to keep your device working.

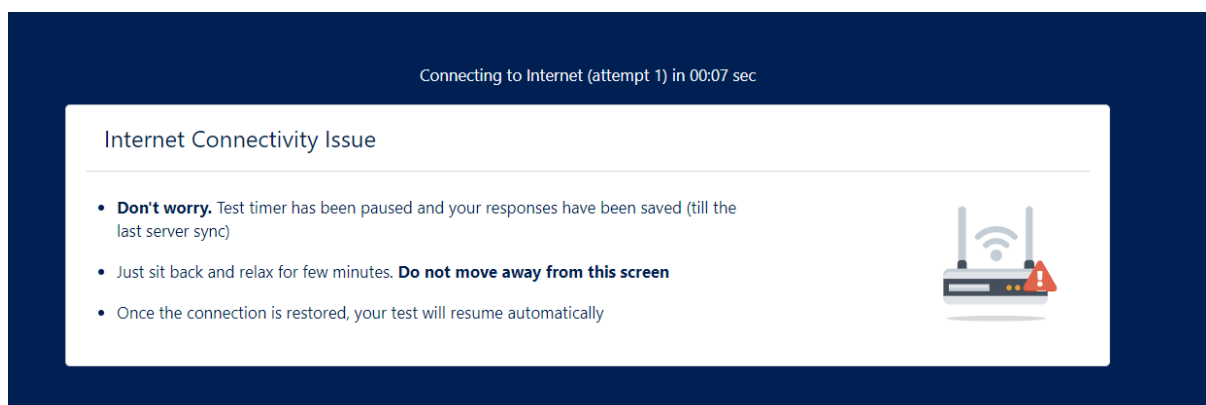

39. What happens in case if internet connectivity fails during the examination?

The exam is conducted in home based online format, which calls for uninterrupted internet connectivity during the examination session.

In unforeseen circumstances affecting internet connectivity, the following is to be borne in mind:

- Your work on the text editor within the examination platform gets auto-saved frequently and chances of losing any written work are remote.
- Your work done on MS Office or R software doesn't get automatically saved in the platform until you upload the relevant files at the end. You should therefore ensure you are saving the work in your local drive periodically till it is ready for upload to avoid disappointment.
- You are expected to keep screenshots as evidence for any internet disruption impacting your work materially as and when they occur. You may be called upon to submit the proofs if any relief is sought citing such disruption.
- Any deliberate attempt to disconnect the internet access will be considered as misconduct and disciplinary action as deemed appropriate can be initiated under such circumstances.

You are advised to make a provision for alternate internet connection to minimize the risk of disruption.

These function keys are meant to act as shortcuts to the standard functions in Excel which can still be accessed in the usual manner. We have tabulated below the alternate means to operate the some of the popular function keys in Excel during the examinations:

| Function Key (func + <>) | What it does? | Direct approach |
|----------------------------------|---|---|
| F1 | Opens Excel Help | Click the Help tab to access help available in the top right of the screen |
| F2 | Moves the insertion point to the end of the contents of the active cell | Click the cell itself using mouse/touch pad |
| F3 | Displays the Paste Name dialog box | Type in the Named range in the cell itself |
| F4 | Cell references | Type in "$" at appropriate stage |
| F5 | Displays the Go To dialog box | Find Go To option by clicking Find & Select under Home tab |
| F7 | Displays the Spelling dialog box | Click Spelling on the Review tab |
| F9 | Calculates the workbook | Go to the Formulas tab, in the Calculation group, click Calculations Options |
| F11 | Creates a chart sheet of a selected range | Go to the Insert tab, click the Chart that you want to draw |
| F12 | Brings up the Save As dialog box | Click Save Us Under File tab |

62. Will there be questions in CB, CP1, CP3, SP and SA subjects that require graphs and diagrams in the solution?

Our examiners have aligned the question paper pattern where you will not have a mandatory requirement to use graphs/diagrams to support your answers.
